POLITICAL INTRLLIGENCE.

Another Address from the Pennsylvania Dem cratic State Committee. DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE ROOMS, } CLEARFIELD, Pa., July 21, 1868.

DEMOCRATS OF PENNSYLVANIA:-

We earnestly invite you to organize for victory. Attention to details, persevering energy, organiza tion and discipline will bring triumph to your Zeal and perseverance in every democrat and horough organization in every locality are the true Saperficial effort, noise and parade are valueless the stake is a mighty one, and must be won by systematic work and business-like energy.

Pennsylvania is the battle ground. At the October dection the enemy will make their most determined Contest.

You occupy the post of bonor—the vanguard of the democratic army. You have proven your ability to carry the State; and individual effort, faith in your principles and courage in their maintenance now will enable you to count your majority by tens of thousands.

whitenable you to count your majority by tens of thousands.

The drift of the tide is toward you; the evidences of changes are abundant, and it is apparent that the political revuision now in progress will end in the utter overthrow of radicalism.

Let us labor to deserve so propitious a result.

We invoke you, then, to energetic action, to close attention to the details of your organization, to the formation of clubs, to the conversion of voters, to the enthusiastic support of your candidates—Saymour, the statesman, and Blair, the galiant soldier.

Let us recognize in their names the symbols of change, the representatives of hatred to radicalism, and extending the hand of fellowship to all who will aid us in saving the republic, conservatives and democrats will move forward under their banner as a mighty phalanx, united, determined and irresistible.

Let your warfare be agrossive. Defend nothing.

as a mighty phalanx, united, determined and irresistible.

Let your warfare be aggressive. Defend nothing. The radicals in power are responsible for the unhappy condition of our country. Charge upon them their extravagance and their crimes. Demand of united an account for your treasure wasted, your union not restored, your race degraded, your business destroyed and your government prostituted.

Let your railying cries be, "A government of white men! Equal taxation! One currency for all!" Organize! Organize! Organize! Organize! To work! To work!

By order of the Democratic State Committee.

Letter from General Hancock-He Was Not Candidate for the Vice Presidency.

Candidate for the Vice Presidency.

Washington, D. C., July 4, 1868.

General J. B. Steedman, New York:—
My Dear Sir.—My relation to the Presidential candidacy was not of my seeking. But when I assumed command of the Pith Muitary District and found it necessary to act upon principles which had long been familiar to my mind, the partiality of friends, without any other effort of mine, brought my name prominently into discussion.

They were generous enough to suppose that with my antecedents and surroundings I might be elected President, and that by an administration conducted rigidly on the principles of the constitution peace and prosperity could be restored to the country. I did not feel at liberty to refuse to contribute, if I could, to a consummation worthy of the noblest human ambition.

If my countrymen deem it wise to impose on me the grave responsibility of the Presidential office in such a time they should receive in return my best exertions. It is, however, proper to say that I would accept no position intended merely to do me an honor, or in which it would not be in my power to carry out the principles which I have considered essential to the preservation of the government. You will understand from this that I am not a candidate for Vice President, and should not consider it my duty to accept a nomination for that office. Very truly yours, Winfield S. Hancock.

The Honors to Charles Francis Adams. Mr. William Gray read the following letter from Governor Bullock, of Massachusetts, on the occasion of the reception of Charles Francis Adams in Boston

LETTER FROM GOVERNOR BULLOCK.
COMMONWEALTH OF MASSAGRUSETTS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, July 21, 1868.
Mr. WILLIAM GRAY:—
My DEAR SHE—I cannot retrain from addressin engagement requiring my absence from the State will prevent my being present on Thursday at the reception to be given Mr. Adams.

I recall with interest that my lamented predecessor made an official call upon Mr. Adams just prior to his departure from the country in 1861, in acknowledgment of the respect entertained for him by the people of Massachusetts and of their appreciation of the honor which the President had conferred upon them by his appointment. And now, on his return, after a long absence, it would be especially in accord with my sense of propriety and my personal desire if I could in person unite with his fellow citzens in a cordial public welcome. I beg permission to assure him that in expressing my own grateful acknowledgment of the value of his service abroad and of the enduring fame which he has attained, not more for himself than for his State and country, I represent the sentiment of all the citizens of this Commonwealth.

I have the honor to remain, with great respect and wealth.

I have the honor to remain, with great respect and esteem, very truly, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER H. BULLOCK.

"I am no democrat," says Garret Davis. Replies a corn-cracker, "Look here, ole fell, who's side you bin fightin' on ?"

The Personnel

The Pennsylvania Democratic Executive Commit-tee are out with another address. They do not seem to be afraid of "rejected addresses." A young men's Seymour and Blair club has been formed in Cairo, Ill. The republicans say, "Non mi caro."

Can a democratic bondholder in Yarmouth, Mass., be considered a Yarmouth bloater?

If every carpet-bagger in the South had carried Mrs. Partington's original Carpet Bag with him the Southerners would have found more fun in it than matter of irritation or annoyance.

A republican paper says the Pendleton escort are now known as the Pendleton pall-bearers. Pretty Charles Cooper, of Mount Vernon, is the working-men's nominee for Congress from the Thirteenth Ohio Congressional district. Mr. Cooper is the pro-prictor of extensive machine shops in Mount Ver-E. H. Moore has been nominated for Congress the republicans of the Fifteenth Ohio district. A republican organization called the "Fighting Boys in Biue" has been formed in Indiana, a thou-Carl Schurz canvasses Indiana, speaking in German only.

THE WATERING PLACES. NEWPORT.

Fine Prospects for the Bathing House Keepers-List of Some of the Valuable Turn-

NEWFORT, July 20, 1868.

There have been many fresh arrivals during the past two or three days, and the winter aspect of deadness that has so long prevailed about certain of the rooms in the hotels is fast disappearing, thanks to the freaks of the thermometer in big cities. The "oldest inhabitant" of this favored region, who hasn't as yet rented his cottage for the season, and gives promise of being here, hale and hearty, next summer, states on his pledged word of honor that there are more strangers at Newport at present than there have been at any previous time within his ven-erable recollection. Yet the hotels were all full in August last season. They are by no means so now. Then where can the people be burrowing? May be the private boarding houses hereabouts can tell something about it.

something about it. summer there was plenty of rain, and on an average only one hundred and fifty people a day courted the swells, or, during the summer, fourteen thousand seven hundred persons. So far four hundred have daily patronized the bathing dresses, and if this wet state of things should continue its swimming way until the close of the season the grand total will foot up forty thousand. How much floes that come to at fifty cents ahead?

The joily dogs who go but to the sea in sailing

The joily dogs who go but to the sea in sailing boats for no small consideration are beginning to boats for no small consideration are beginning to put on aristocrasts are—for the benefit of their sails, perhaps. They chuckie over the fact that the thirty boats which do servile duty—Sabbath not excepted—to the visitors are all hired out day by day, each averaging ten persons as a party, whereas last year it was considered uncommonly good fortune when four of the boats were hired any day during the season.

Even the sinister man who is so obliging to people, having no objections to driving other people's teams and paying well for their want of objections, thinks, "the horrid fellow," that horseficial is looking up. Seven dollars a drive, twenty carriages out daily twenty times a day, and more wanted, is the solution of horsefiels "looking up." The livrels are faring far better now than ever yet. "Confound me if know a visitor in Newport," exclaimed a boatman the other day. "I kind o' know even all herefolds." A deligniful combination among some of the visitors' servants has come to lignit. The former found their horses getting poor. Jehu said it was because the fodder was back—it should be bought of Mr. Hay and not of Mr. Straw, although Mr. straw because the fooder was bar-it should be longift of hr. Hay and not of Mr. Straw, although Mr. Straw did charge twenty per cent more than his neighbor. Visitors, too dignified to make personal investiga-tions, ordered Join to transfer custom to Mr. Hay. Costom transferred, and as Mr. Hay did not charge a cent more than Mr. Straw, Jehu thereafter drank his whiskeys straight and often, and the horses, not being cut down in their allowance, thrived finely. Since the discovery there has been an awint pow-wow in the stables. Now, who let the cat, or rather wow in the stables. Now, who let the cat, or rather the cats, out of the bag?

A convention of all the distinguished oculists of the country was held here a day or two ago. The convention happily resolved to do all it could hereafter to make even the blindest man see well enough to count a fee without "aids to sight." It is rumored that, in view of the magnificent scenery hereabouts, they recommended the establishment of an asylum for the blind at Newport.

BEDFORD SPRINGS.

Bedford Springs has almost a national history, for it has been the Mecca of hundreds of our statesmen and politicians who came here to seek a remedy for the ills which seem to attend men in public life. It has also been the rendezvous for many a gathering of the wire-pullers, and more than one "slate" has been made here under the cool hade of Tusaey's Mountain. The Pennsylvanians make it a regular resort every summer, but many prominent Southerners, whose names are famous in the history of whig and democratic politics and notorious in the record of the rebellion, were its constant visitors until the beginning of the war. It still retains something of its old manners. It is a link between the past and the present. As you a link between the past and the present. As you stroll about the vast grounds among the roomy cot-tages and beneath the old silver-leaf poplars it is as easy to fancy that you are in Virginia as it was ten years ago, and the illusion is more perfect when you find yourself waited upon by venerable darkies, who yet retain a great deal of that peculiar, respectful intimacy which characterized them during the existence of the "institution," and who may be seen "toting" in the most affectionate way some of the more infirm valetudinarians to the swring or to the diving table. The to the spring or to the dining table. The voice of the past is ever heard. Every step recalls the gay Hotspurs, with their "poker" playing and whiskey drinking—the wild spirits who easily caught the spark of rebellion from their crafty leaders and devils of the Confederate service. But all is changed now. The place has been "loyalized," so to speak, and the society and sojourners of the present day are, with few exceptions, those who took part or sympathized with the government.

unpleasant character. Leaving the Pennsylvania Railroad at Huntingdon, the traveller is slowly drawn over a branch railroad (the rate is about ten miles an hour) to Mount Dallas, where he is tran-shipped into a stage of the old-fashioned sort and shipped into a stage of the old-fashioned sort and joited about eight miles over a mountain road to the Springs. On the way he passes through the little town of Bedford, an early settlement of the country, which gives name to everything in the vicinity, and which was also one of the many headquarters of the lamented G. Washington. One legend hath it that he "iocated" his oiffee there (he was a surveyor and engineer) when he returned after the battle in which Braddock was defeated, and another saith that it was his headquarters when he came down to look after the suppression of the Pennsylvania whiskey rebellion. Whichever is correct, it is very certain that the spirit of rebellion which was born in these mountains then has not died out, for the very descendants of these same opponents of the old whiskey laws are now copperheads and were rebels during the war as far as they dared to be. The feeling of isolation at Bedford Springs is almost complete. The place is buried in the mountains miles from anything like a city. The New York and Philadelphia papers are thirty-six hours old when they arrive here. The immediate situation is on the dividing bridge between the East and the West. The peaks that look down upon the valley in which the hotel is situated are the highest points of the Alleghanies. The little stream of waller at the door is a branch of the Junista, and flows downward and westward until it reaches the Ohio. Across the ridge and almost winnin a stone's throw is another little stream, the waters of which run eastward until they flow into the James and the Atlantic.

The hotel—it has no name and no rival—'& a large collection of buildings, capable of accolumodating over ave hundred people. It is situated are the usual nightly kept takes place. The music is furnished by a band of darlies, who are scated on a high platform at one e.zd. They also "discourse" during the intervals Pist before meals and sometimes add a serenade at befitime. The cottages flank the main building and comprise rows of long barrack jolted about eight miles over a mountain road to the

TROTTING AT THE UNION COURSE.

THURSDAY, July 23.-Match $1,000 (*), mile heats, best three in five.

First Reat .- Jim was the favorite at nearly two to one before the start. He took the lead and opened a gap of six lengths on the turn, which he held to the three-quarter pole. Lady Lovell was then sent for the heat, but she had waited too long, and the geld-ing won by three lengths in 3:01. Second Heat.—Lady Lovell was now the favorite. but for what reason no one knew. A good start, and Lady Lovell carried Jim to a break, by which he lost half a dozen lengths. This he made up very rapidly. and was a length ahead at the half-mile pole. He came home a winner by six lengths in 2:51.

Third Heat.—Jim took the lead at the start, went about his business and won easily by five lengths in 2:47.

Second Heat.—One hundred to ten on the mare.

Second Heat.—One hundred to ten on the mare.

The gelding took the lead and was four lengths in front at the quarter pole. The mare, however, took his measure on the backstretch, and was one length in front at the haif mile pole. She soon opened a gap of four lengths, which she maintained to the end, making the heat in 2:47 ½.

was another colored man concerned with Moore in the affair, who has also been arrested. She was out her way at the time from her father's residence to Belair, and when near Bynum's Run bridge, on the Church hill road, she was met by the two, who at once commenced an assault upon her, first robbing her of a sum of money. Fortunately the screams of the young lady had the effect of frightening the villains away before they had fully accomplished their nefarious designs. Notice of the outrage was given, and Moore was subsequently arrested and lodged in jail. Great excitement prevailed, and when Moore was brought out before the magistrate in the atternoon for a hearing (as stated in the despatch he was taken away from the officers by a mob and carried off and hanged.—Battimore Sun, July 24.
